Academy News

Dear Parents

This is a very unusual newsletter to be writing in a time full of challenges. But, the week has still seen a lot of joy in our school. The children have enjoyed reading new books, writing super stories, working out maths problems, creating wonderful art work, and most importantly, spending time with their friends.

Words cannot express how appreciative I am of all the staff in our school and our Trust, who have been in front of the children, behind the scenes or working from home, keeping our school a calm and secure environment. We will all continue to be working for the foreseeable future, in different ways and possibly in different locations.

Huge thanks must also go to all of you, who have understood how quickly things have moved on, and with very little warning. We are still working hard to make plans for the future until we are back as our whole school community again. We will continue to communicate with you as things progress and new decisions are made.

But the most important message for today is:

Thank you. We wish you all well during this time.

Take care, look after each other and we look forward to seeing you when we re-open to the children.
